

THE END OF AN EXCHANGE

The exchange with Temple Carrig school in Dublin has come to an end with the hosting of the Irish students for a week from the 3rd to the 10th October.

For the past year the International section has been corresponding with Temple Carrig school in Dublin, Ireland. Last year, the 4^e class went to visit them. This year, the Irish students and their teachers came to see us and spend a week with their 3^e partners.

The wonderful one-week exchange was a great experience for all.

Here are some of the students' thoughts about the exchange :

« It was like having a week-long sleep over. » Deanne

« Now we're closer as a group. » Sylvie

« Honestly I haven't had a week as good as that for weeks. » Louis

« I now have two brilliant friends. » Charlie

Claude

« My pen didn't like French food and the only cheese he liked was cheddar ! » Mikael

« At the end almost everyone cried. » Jaime

« I only wish one thing : to see them again. » Scott

« You brought the rain, we brought the sun, but in the end I'd do anything to go back. » Carla

« At first I thought it was just an exchange of letters, but now I realise it was much more. » Ian

« We promised to see each other again, but I know this is kind of the end. » Marie

It's true that, at the end, many tears were shed and some students have even begun to make plans for a future visit. As Bria wrote, « We will all be able to look back on a wonderful time with wonderful people. »

To conclude, in Zoe Lafontan's words :

"Passport in our rucksack

Saying all the goodbyes

It's funny we don't notice

How fast time flies."
